

Wk 27.4.20

Phoneme Spotters

Circle the blends

sh — red

igh — blue

th — green

ea — pink

The Princess and the Pea

(To the Tune of Row, Row, Row Your Boat)

There was a prince that wanted a wife,
A princess she must be.
To test her truth the queen did place
Grand beds upon a pea.

The princess climbed up to her rest.
The bed; it had great height.
She said, "I hardly closed my eyes.
I tossed and turned all night."

The prince then took her for his wife.
This princess, she was real.
No other could have delicate skin.
Such a small pea she could feel.

By Karen Wilson